The Quiet Power of Discipline

Dear children,

I can almost visualise you frowning at the word mentioned above because discipline is often associated with rules, restrictions, and responsibilities. But true discipline is much more than following instructions or adhering to a timetable. It is the quiet habit of doing ordinary things well - consistently, carefully, and with a sense of responsibility.

We often underestimate the importance of mundane tasks. We may feel that we are meant for something bigger and that these small details do not really matter. But life is built on these seemingly insignificant actions. The way we do the small things today gradually shapes the way we approach the bigger challenges of tomorrow.

The way we dress, for instance, reflects our sense of self-respect and our regard for others. Taking the time to wear clean, well-ironed clothes, maintaining a neat haircut, and presenting ourselves appropriately may appear to be old school, but they cultivate habits of care and attention. These habits eventually extend to every aspect of our personal and professional life. These habits teach us something invaluable: to bring order to what we do.

Organisation gives us clarity. Organising our thoughts helps us think better. Organising our time helps us use it wisely. Organising our surroundings creates a sense of calm and purpose. When our external world is in order, it often becomes easier to bring order to our minds as well.

A person who learns to be punctual, neat, organised, and attentive in everyday life develops qualities that will serve them long after their school years are over.

Success, therefore, is not always created by extraordinary moments. More often, it is the result of ordinary things done extraordinarily well, day after day.

As we begin this academic year, let us not dismiss the mundane. Let us learn to respect the small things - the neatly arranged desk, the well-kept uniform, the carefully written notebook, the organised schoolbag, the completed task, the punctual arrival. These may seem insignificant today, but they are the building blocks of character. Discipline is not about making life smaller. It is about bringing order to our lives so that we have the clarity, confidence, and readiness to achieve something greater.

ENVIRONMENT DAY PROGRAMME AT OUR SCHOOL

Interactive Session by the Ayurveda doctors (Ayurveda Medical Association)

Herbal Awareness Programme

A Herbal Awareness Programme was conducted at Hari Sri Vidya Nidhi School, Punnunnam, Thrissur, for the students of Classes I to V by a team of Ayurveda experts from the Ayurveda Medical Association of India, comprising Dr. Vidya R. Nair, Dr. Krishnaveni M. P., Dr. Rejitha K., Dr. Lakshmi J., and Dr. Sreedevi K. P. The resource persons introduced the students to the medicinal value of several herbs commonly found in Kerala, such as Aloe Vera, Adalodakam (Malabar Nut), Tulsi, Turmeric, Neem, and Thulasi and so on. They explained the traditional uses of these herbs that help in maintaining good health and treating common ailments. They emphasised the importance of preserving these natural remedies and making use of the plants that grow around our homes. The session was highly interactive. The experts brought fresh herbs for the children to observe, touch, and smell, enabling them to identify the plants through their appearance, texture, and fragrance. They also encouraged the students to recognise these medicinal plants in their own surroundings and understand their everyday significance. The students participated enthusiastically, asked thoughtful questions, and gained valuable knowledge about Ayurveda and the rich herbal heritage of Kerala. The programme was both informative and engaging, leaving the children with a greater appreciation for the medicinal plants found in nature.

The attentive audience

Mrs. Deepti Menon
Executive Director

The month of June had all the flurry of activity expected in the beginning of a brand-new session. Environment Day ushered in a group of dedicated doctors from the Ayurveda Medical Association of India, who gave a lecture-demo, presenting our school with an array of medicinal plants to start an Oushadhi garden. We were proud of our toppers in every class who were given trophies and certificates during Honours Day. International Yoga and Music Day were celebrated, followed by Reading Week events organised by all four sections, culminating in the Bookworm Awards.

Literary and Sports competitions brought out the best in our children. I thought I would end with 'A Frog's Story'.

The Power of Ignoring Negativity

A frog once decided to climb to the top of a tree. All the other frogs shouted, "It's impossible!" Yet the frog reached the top. How was it possible? The frog was deaf and thought that they were cheering him on.

Lesson of the story:

When you have a goal, be deaf to negativity and keep climbing. Until next time...

ICSE DEBATE COMPETITION

The ICSE Debate competition was held on 9th June 2026. The contestants had four minutes to speak for or against the topic "Modern education prepares students for real life." The contestants spoke well and were questioned by other contestants thoroughly, keeping to the expected standards. The title of best speaker was awarded to Prarthana G.S. The runner-up speaker was Gautam Praveen. The best team was team 'D', consisting of Gautam Praveen and Tarun Sathish. The contestants demonstrated great skill in logic, linguistics and logical reasoning. Before the event concluded, members of the audience were permitted to speak about their thoughts regarding the topic on the stage. The event concluded following an address by the Executive Director, Ms Deepti Menon.

ISC DEBATE CONTEST

On 9th June, 2026, the Hari Sri School Auditorium hosted the Annual ISC Debate Competition. The anxious but electric atmosphere intensified as participants prepared to take their stance on the stage. The burning question at the centre of this competition was: "Freedom of speech is being misused on social media platforms." The ISC Debate was limited to students from the 11th and 12th grade, and began around 10:00 a.m. The competition was between four teams, A, B, C and D.

This digital dilemma was broken down and tackled by the bright minds on these teams, both the proposition and opposition being deeply rooted in their stance. Each team consisted of two people, one person going for the notion and the other going against. Even in the rebuttal rounds, it was admirable to see how these participants stood by their stance. After everyone had spoken, our esteemed judges, our Executive Director, Ms. Deepti Menon, our respected Principal, Ms. Preetha Venugopal and Ms. Kavitha Kochumon from the High School English Department, wrote down their evaluations, while the tallying of the points was done. We had a fun session wherein students from the audience could come up and talk about their opinion on the subject.

The results were announced the next day. Team B, comprising of Keshav Menon Singh and Avni Syam Prakash, won the title of the Best Team and Keshav Menon Singh was awarded the position of the Best Speaker. Ultimately, it was a lively event, rewarding the audience with a deeper understanding of the digital world.

ISC QUIZ CONTEST

The ISC Inter-House Quiz Competition was held in our school on 10th June, 2026. The event was conducted by Mr. Abid Abdulla and we witnessed enthusiastic participation from all four houses. Keshav Menon Singh, Niranjana Muralaiah and Abhiram V represented Ganga House, while Abhinav Arun, Anuradha Nair and Ishaan Krishna Thamattoor represented Godavari House. Aarush Nair, Elaina Berin, and Mahadev TM participated from Kaveri House and Asher Anand Sagar, Abhinav V Menon, and Cera Rose represented the Krishna House.

The competition consisted of three exciting rounds: the Clockwise Round, the Written Quiz, and the Anti-Clockwise Round. The questions covered a wide range of topics, including the FIFA World Cup, movies, current affairs, science, and general knowledge. Whenever the contestants were unable to answer, members of the audience were given an opportunity to respond, making the event even more engaging and interactive.

At the end of the competition, Kaveri House emerged victorious with 82 points, followed by Ganga House in second place, Godavari House in third, and Krishna House in fourth. The quiz was both informative and enjoyable, enriching everyone's knowledge and promoting healthy competition among the students.

ICSE QUIZ COMPETITION

4

The ICSE Inter-House Quiz Competition was conducted on 10th June 2026 in the school auditorium. The event aimed to encourage students to broaden their knowledge, develop quick thinking skills, and promote healthy competition among the houses. The programme was coordinated by the school teachers along with the Quiz Master from Nexus Consulting, Mr. Abid Abdulla.

Participation

The four houses, Ganga, Godavari, Kaveri, and Krishna, were represented by a team of three students each. The audience enthusiastically supported the participants throughout the event, contributing to an exciting and lively atmosphere.

Proceedings of the Competition

The quiz consisted of three rounds. The first round was an oral round in which teams answered questions in a clockwise order. The team that received the opportunity to answer first was determined by drawing lots using slips of paper. The second round was a written round, where participants answered a set of questions individually within the allotted time. This round tested the teams' depth of knowledge and analytical abilities.

The final round followed an anti-clockwise pattern, which was the reverse of the first round. The contestants displayed confidence, teamwork, and presence of mind while responding to the challenging questions posed by the quiz master.

Results

At the end of the competition, Godavari House emerged as the winners and secured the first position. Ganga House obtained the second position. The winning teams were congratulated and appreciated for their outstanding performance.

Conclusion

The ICSE Inter-House Quiz Competition was both informative and entertaining. It provided students with an excellent opportunity to showcase their knowledge and improve their general awareness.
